Hello 3Brain,

I'm a software engineer based in the UK, looking for an interesting opportunity to move to my home country, Italy.

I learned on LinkedIn about your open position in Genoa, and I would be thrilled to have the opportunity to get to know each other.

What captivated me about your job post was your Company's core business - it covers all the things I love to work with: signals, software, and novel, meaningful technologies.

The reason I think I could be a good fit is that I believe I have a solid and very well rounded software development/architecture experience, together with a strong scientific background given my years in the academic (and industrial) research.

I hope that my profile piques your interest and, because the COVID-19 outbreak, I'm currently, working from my home in Genoa. This could be a perfect window of opportunity for us to have a chat!

Looking forward to hear from you,

Giulio
